It happened… you feel different, you feel happy, you feel that something is different and it elevates you to heights you've never been before. It can be a person, or a sight, but always, you feel you are in resonance with the other and nothing can replace that feeling. I'm happy I was able to feel it and I wish you experience it too. I makes you feel alive, it makes you feel the life is worth the downs, just to be able to experience that feeling at least once in a life time. Be happy! Be alive!
