

It happened... you feel different, you feel happy, you feel that something is different and it elevates you to heights you've never been before. It can be a person, or a sight, but always, you feel you are in resonance with the other and nothing can replace that feeling. I'm happy I was able to feel it and I wish you experience it too. It makes you feel alive, it makes you feel the life is worth the downs, just to be able to experience that feeling at least once in a life time. Be happy! Be alive!
