

It's all over the news. More than three weeks ago in Nigeria around 300 girls were kidnapped from their school by people opposing women education. This may seem to be "out there" not in our vicinity so it's just some news, it will pass.

The problem is this is not true, not any more, now we know and we have to do something about it. Question is what? Of course some people using some expensive gear will risk their lives to try to bring all those innocent souls back to their families. Then what? We all live happily... until next time. Because if we don't do anything to understand the real reasons behind this event it is guaranteed that other of the same or equivalent events will happen again.

I believe everyone has its right to believe whatever they want, as much time as they don't mess with the access to information and education of every single one of us, no matter where or who we are.

I hope all those souls will get back to their loved ones soon, but the work to disseminate knowledge, the type of knowledge which will set us free must start now.

Keep in mind that we produce a lot of information, but not all of it is knowledge and most of it will keep you chained to one narrow concept or another and that is not freedom.

"Freedom is not free!"

Info on the kidnapping

Share this:

- Click to share on Facebook \(Opens in new window\) Facebook
- Click to share on Tumblr \(Opens in new window\) Tumblr
- Click to share on WhatsApp \(Opens in new window\) WhatsApp

- Click to print \(Opens in new window\) Print
- Click to share on LinkedIn \(Opens in new window\) LinkedIn
- Click to share on X \(Opens in new window\) X
- Click to share on Pinterest \(Opens in new window\) Pinterest
- Click to share on Pocket \(Opens in new window\) Pocket
- Click to email a link to a friend \(Opens in new window\) Email
- Click to share on Reddit \(Opens in new window\) Reddit